THE AGRICULTURAL JOURNAL AND
THE NEWS.—The State AGRICULTURAL JOURNAL, an eight-page Weekly published in Raleigh, N. C., is published by the Daily News at $5.00 per annum, and with the Weekly News at $5.00 per annum. The Editors directed to either paper will receive prompt attention.

As the enforcement of the Cash system will cause us to strike from our list the names of many of our subscribers and after the first of this month, we trust that no offense will be taken by those who may thus find their papers discontinued, as we mean no disrespect to any one in doing so, but only to carry out our determination and the recommendation of the late Press Convention. We trust, however, that those who have been dropped at once renew their subscriptions.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

Pomegranates are now in bloom.

Burke County Court is in session this week.

The new schedule on the North Carolina Railroad commenced on Sunday night.

A letter is held in the postoffice at this city, for lack of proper postage, addressed to Mrs. Virginia P. Allord, Sanvalda, Ga.

Judge W. A. Moore holds the special term of the Mecklenburg Court, which commences on the third Monday in July.

The health of Judge Boyden will not admit of his appearance on the Supreme Court Bench during the present session.

A. H. Boyden, Esq., the popular young Enrolling Clerk of the present House of Representatives, was in the city Saturday.

A regular Convocation of Raleigh Chapter R. A. M., this evening at the usual hour and place. A full and prompt attendance desired.

Should his health permit, Judge Boyden will attend the Commencement exercises of Union College at Schenectady, New York. Where he graduated fifty-two years ago.

We learn that Jno. H. Wheeler is preparing a Legislative Manual of North Carolina, which will probably be ready by the meeting of the Legislature in November. The work will be a very valuable book of reference.

On Sunday afternoon Mrs. Gattis, a highly respectable lady residing on East Davis street, was painfully injured in the forehead by the careless throwing of a stone by a boy in the street. She was so seriously injured that the services of a physician were required. We have repeatedly called the attention of the authorities to this practice, and we again inquire how long it is to continue! We are informed that it is a daily practice on this street, especially where Per street crosses Davis. If the police do their duty this practice can be stopped, and the lives of pedestrians protected from these flying missiles.

RECORDED REVENUE FRAUDS.—We hear it rumored on the streets, on all sides, that District Attorney Badger, in investigating the frauds in the collection of United States taxes in this District, has developed stupendous frauds, and that he has secured the Govern-ment has been delinquent of large sums. When the charges are investigated fully and the blame fixed where it belongs, the people will be advised of the whole facts.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.—The Executive Committee of the N. C. Agricultural Society are requested to meet the Building Committee on the Fair Ground, this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, in order to consult as to the location of buildings, race track, &c. All who take an interest in the fair are invited to attend and give their views in the laying off of the proposed track.

VOL. II.

RALEIGH, N. C. TUESDAY MORNING, JUNE 17, 1873.

NO. 97.

A RALEIGHITE IN LONDON.—What He Has Seen and Heard.—From a private letter to a party in this city from Col. W. H. Tucker, we take the following extracts:

I continue well, and am still enjoying myself in seeing much of the old world. I will go East some time during the next week. Will stay a week at Paris, and then through South German States—passing through Wurtemberg to Vienna.

I received your letters and the Raleigh papers yesterday; glad to hear from all, &c. The Raleigh papers I will place on file at the great Vienna exhibition as samples from the North Carolina press. Would like to have had the pleasure of placing some of our farm and mechanical products on exhibition, but suppose our farmers take much interest in Vienna fairs this season of the year.

We went to the Derby races on last Wednesday, and as for telling you what I saw, I think it best for you to ask me what I did not see; for such sights come here but once a year, and to me, perhaps, but once in a lifetime. The Derby races is to the English somewhat like the Fourth of July is to us, a general holiday. Everybody turns out; such crowds; all sorts of funny things and sights; it would fill a book for me to undertake to tell you all. The racing was good—and I ought to know, as I have seen some of the finest racers in the United States, including Longfellow and Harry Bassett.

I know all the world & the rest of mankind were at the races. The old and young, the rich and poor, the nobility and the beggar in his rags, all conveyance was in demand, and thousands went out by railway, some on donkeys, mules, wagons, drays, and others in the finest equipages in the world. The course was literally thronged with human beings and the sight was truly a great one to me and my friends, and all had a good time. On such occasions carriages hire from £1 to £10 for the day, the one we used cost 10 shillings, p. m., at which time it was not dark at all, and miles along the road and all through the city was one continual stream of human beings returning from the races.

On yesterday we visited the Bank of England; went all through the buildings and was satisfied with what we had all ways heard—that it was a "big thing." I had in my hand five millions of sterling, one bill alone for one million. Well enough for a fellow to feel rich once if he is required to give it back to the Bank—and as to gold and silver there seemed to be no end to it. The printing and making of gold money was very interesting, and after leaving the Bank, we went to the Mint, where purchasing some of our Fall goods, which will be imported directly for W. H. & R. S. Tucker & Co. From the exterior of these buildings, one would suppose that they were rather small, but you will be agreeably disappointed when you enter the store. They are large and cut up into different departments. No show here in the store houses but all are built strong and substantial.

Their business does not commence in London until about 9 to 10 o'clock in the morning—rather late for me. Afterwards, we went up and down the River Thames; saw fine massive buildings and substantial and solid bridges—the London bridge, Southern Railroad, Southwark, Blackfriars, Waterloo and many others. The London bridge, it is said, is fifteen millions to build. Passed the two Houses of Parliament, &c. On Monday night, June 2nd, we are going to the Opera at "Drury Lane," to hear Mad' Christine Nilsson in her "Lucia di Lammermoor"—an extra night; hope to see the crowned heads out. Went last night to the Haymarket Theatre, and have been to many places of note, which my time will not permit me to describe. When I return in the Fall, I will hold a big levee, and can then tell you and my friends of the many sights I have seen, and the many things I have heard, which cannot well be written.

FIRE.—The alarm of fire sounded last night at 10 o'clock, caused by the burning of Beam's store on East Hargett street, near Camp Russell, and opposite the old Fair Grounds. The fire was caused by the explosion of a kerosene oil barrel, which was ignited by a kerosene lamp while the oil was being transferred from the barrel to a tin stand.

The store of Mr. Bein, with its entire contents were soon burned to the ground, nothing saved. Both Mr. and Mrs. Bein were severely burned and barely escaped with their lives. The adjoining store of Mr. Bryan was also burned to the ground, and only the most heroic efforts of the Hook & Ladder and Bucket Fire Companies were the adjoining buildings of Mr. Smith and others saved.

The entire fire brigade was promptly on the spot, but only the companies whose names were able to render any service in subduing the flames, though the Victor, after much effort, succeeded in getting a stream. When the firemen performed all the service that was in their power, it would seem unfair to discriminate, but the almost superhuman efforts of Chas. Lang, Esq., Assistant Foreman of the Hook and Ladder, and A. G. Rhum, of the Bucket, are deserving of special mention.

The Rescue Engine was pulled out by hand by its Company, an considering the distance and the condition of the streets was a feat that reflects great credit on the efficiency of the Company. We saw in the rank and file of the Rescue one of our oldest citizens, D. L. Royster, Esq., who worked as energetically as his son in the same line and equally as brave.

The loss is estimated at about 3,000. No insurance.

LOST.—A lead-colored pointer, with brown spots. A liberal reward will be paid for his delivery at the residence of Mrs. Lucy D. Bryan or to Major B. C. Mainly. The dog is about five months old and answers to the name of Frac.

THE CITY OF CHARLOTTE.—Returning from a brief visit through some of the Southern States, we halted a day in the "future London of the South," and spent a few hours leisurely viewing the most lovely portions of this really beautiful city. Charlotte is rapidly growing into a place commercially of no small importance, the general business of the State increasing with each year. The completion of the Atlanta Air Line Railroad, which will take place in August, will add much to this business, as it will place Charlotte in more easy communication with the great markets of the West, and place it on one of the shortest and most rapid routes between the North and South. Some of the largest wholesale dry goods establishments in the State, are already established here, while the commission business is growing into handsome proportions. And what, the Charlotte-merchants are displaying a positive energy that is highly commendable and which will always find its results.

Through the courtesy of Major W. J. Yates, of the Democrat, (to whom we are indebted for most courteous attention during our stay in Charlotte), we enjoyed a drive through and around the city, and were struck with the general appearance of neatness and good taste displayed in the dwellings and grounds of the citizens, which renders Charlotte seldom seen burial grounds more handsomely arranged than those of Elmwood Cemetery—the people of Charlotte therein evidence that tender fondness for those "who have gone before" which marks them as not without soul in this moving age of business.

The grounds of the Carolina Fair Association are in readiness for the approaching Fair, which, we learn, is positively to be held this fall. The grounds are not surpassed in the completeness of their arrangements by any other now in the State, and will only be second to the State grounds to be completed in Raleigh by the middle of October.

We called on Gov. Z. B. Vance, and found him busy with a client—he looked as jovial and cheerful as usual. Long may he continue the pride of all North Carolinians. We spent a short while with Capt. R. P. Went, the able and efficient Senator from Mecklenburg, and were pleased to find him looking well. His friends in Raleigh will greet him back here next November with pleasure. Our young friend Johnston Jones, of the Observer, we are glad to learn, is doing well with his Daily. May he long live and prosper.

The Central House was our place of abode during our stay. It is well kept, both the lodging and dining rooms are of a neatness that is appreciated. The talk at the evening assembly was upon "The Bible as an educator," and was an effort of still greater power. One of the largest congregations, composing all denominations, (the other churches having suspended services for the purpose) was assembled, and the feeling for popular education aroused and fostered by their presence, cannot fail of its influence hereafter.

Dr. Northrop is a scholar, as well as a fine speaker, and gave universal satisfaction.

THE PROPOSED EXCURSION OF THE RESCUE AND HOOK AND LADDER FIRE COMPANIES TO FAYETTEVILLE.—We learn from the Committee of Arrangements that everything is being prepared for the proposed excursion of our Fire Companies to Fayetteville on the 4th of July, and a gala time is reasonably expected.

From the Eagle of Fayetteville, we learn that the President of that city are making preparations for the entertainment of our "boys in red," and from what we know of this good old town, gained by actual experience, we can say to our boys there is nothing to fear, "all will be well." Having accepted an invitation to accompany the excursion, a resolution was actually presented in the meeting a few days ago, offered by our friend Merrill, the efficient Assistant Chief of the Fire Department, proposing to engage two extra pigs in the Market House for our special use, and a notification sent forward in order to prevent unnecessary alarm at our coming.

MEMORIAL SERMON.—At the M. E. Church, on Sunday morning, the Rev. Mr. Mangum delivered an eloquent eulogium upon the character of Rev. N. F. Reid, deceased, which was pronounced by those who heard it to be unequalled in matter and in sentiment. The dead divine had a large circle of intimate friends in this city, who loved him with a deep affection, and we learn that further testimonials in honor of his spotless memory will be made at the approaching Quarterly Conference.

WAKE FOREST COLLEGE COMMENCEMENT.—We return our thanks to the managers for a complimentary ticket at the Wake Forest Commencement exercises, and also the annual sociable party. The wind, waves and weather permitting, we shall be on hand as the special reporter of the News. The exercises will commence next Tuesday the 24th inst., and continue three days. A full programme of the exercises has heretofore been published.

THE CITIZEN'S CORNET BAND.—The subjoined correspondence speaks for itself. We commend the accommodating spirit manifested by the gentlemen composing the band, and predict for them a rich return from this bread thrown upon the waters. They are eminently worthy of public patronage, and should have it.

THE DAILY NEWS IN GOLDSBORO.

The recent change of schedule on the North Carolina Road will throw the morning edition of the Daily News in Goldsboro by 4 o'clock every morning. It will contain the midnight telegrams, and will reach that city some seconds hours ahead of the dailies from any other point either in or out of the State. We shall effect arrangement, at once whereby the News can be supplied to the citizens of Goldsboro at a very early hour every morning, thus placing the markets, telegrams and other late news in their hands before the business of the day shall have commenced. We hope to meet with a liberal support in this endeavor.

IN THIS CITY, on Monday, June 16, 1873, at 10 o'clock, a. m., D. A. B. infant daughter of Chas. and Maria M. Horner, aged 14 months and 4 days.

The funeral services will take place at the residence of Person Street, between Hargett and Martin, this morning at 10 o'clock. Friends of the family invited to attend.

MAYOR'S COURT.—Before his Honor,
Mayor W. Whitaker, Monday, June 16, 1873.
J. G. Saunders, the proprietor of a Bar room near the Central Depot, was arraigned for retailing spirituous liquors on Sunday in violation of an ordinance made and provided. Upon conviction he was fined $25, and his license revoked.

David Bashaw, for being drunk and disorderly on the streets Sunday, was made to shell out $7.00 for the privilege.
One Myers, for being drunk and disorderly on Fayetteville street, was required to add $5.00 to the depleted city treasury.

RUNAWAY.—Yesterday about 10 A.
M., the monotony which hung over the lower portion of Fayetteville street was broken most opportunely for local temper by the running away of a pair of mules attached to a wagon loaded with bales of Northern hay. The team collided with the postoffice fence on the Court House side, and threw the driver out, together with a couple of bales of hay. Nobody was hurt and nothing smashed, and the vehicle was soon righted, loaded anew, and pursued on the even tenor of its way to the place of its destination.

MIDNIGHT DISPATCHES.

Washington News—Kellogg's Last Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 16th.—Belknap returns Friday.

Sherman returned on Saturday.

The Star says that a change will be made in twenty Consulates to make room for Southern men.

The Attorney General on Saturday evening last received the following dispatch from Gov. (T.) Kellogg, of Louisiana:

"The reported interview published in the New York Tribune of the 9th, regarding the President's proclamation is incorrect. My requisition on the President was fully justified, and the President's proclamation has had a salutary effect in all respects. The men being paid more rapidly than ever before in Louisiana. After providing for the January and February interest, we have over $450,000 dollars in State funds to-night in the hands of the fiscal agents, and will pay March, April and June coupons early in July. The injunction only restrains the payment of interest of the five series of bonds of 25. There is money enough to pay the interest on all bonds in the hands of the fiscal agents."

A Fearful Murder.
Belfast, Maine, June 16th.—At day-break this morning, Almon Gordon, a farmer living near Thornbury Station, and his wife and youngest daughter were found murdered in one bed, and his little son six years old, who slept in a crib in the same room, fearfully wounded, and the house set on fire. All the bodies were much mutilated. A bloody axe, with which the slaughter was done, was found near at hand. A younger brother of the murdered man is now under arrest charged with the crime. The alleged cause of the bloody work was a dispute about some property. The suspected man appears perfectly calm and manifests no anxiety.

San Francisco Items.
SAN FRANCISCO, June 16.—All the Modoc prisoners have been removed to St. Klamath under strong guard.
The reported invasion of Sonora, Mexico, by bands of Apache Indians, from the vicinity of Tucson, is denied.
James Oldfield has been murdered in the town of Palisades, Sonora by a man named Addiss, who stabbed his victim right in the presence of his wife.
D. O. Mills has resigned the position of President of the Bank of California.

SPEEDY JUSTICE IN VIRGINIA.

The law's delay, of which we have so many illustrations in the criminal trials at the North, is an obstruction of the course of justice which calls loudly for removal.

That there is great defect somewhere no one has the hardihood to deny. To what cause that defect may be attributed, whether to the inefficiency of the law itself, to the incompetency of judges, to the ingenuity of lawyers, or to each and all of these, it is nevertheless true that persons accused of murder or any other very grave crime, often manage to stave off a trial for months, sometimes for years, and when the trial does take place and a verdict of guilty is pronounced, the chances are that a new trial will be granted, either by the Court below or that of the highest appellate jurisdiction in the State where the offence was committed.

The circumstances in Stokes' case, which illustrate our position, are familiar to our readers. In the case of Mrs. Clem, of Indiana, accused of the murder of Mr. and Mrs. Young, the dispatches in our last issue stated that she had been granted a new trial by the Supreme Court at Indianapolis, this last making the fifth trial she has been allowed by the Courts.

In contrast with this perplexing hindrance of the wheels of justice, are the trial and conviction of Jim Brown, the negro who so brutally murdered Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Dozier, in Nansemond County, Virginia, on the first inst. We gave full particulars of this fiendish crime soon after its commission, and the annals of murder have rarely furnished such a revolting and atrocious instance of human depravity and diabolism. Two highly respectable and estimable ladies, while sitting at their home on a beautiful Sabbath morning in June, are unexpectedly visited by an inhuman monster, who, after demanding their money, suddenly springs upon them with a deadly weapon, and with murderous hand fells them to the floor—quivering in the agonies of death. Their screams for mercy awaken no pity in the heart of the dark souled fiend—the life-blood gushing from the mangled forms of his victims, instead of producing remorse and horror for his wicked deed, serves only to arouse the demon in his soul. Like some wild beast that the taste of blood engorges to the pitch

Brown was indicted and lodged in jail. Court being in session at Suffolk last week, he was indicted by the Grand Jury, and at once arraigned for trial. On Wednesday last, he was convicted of murder in the first degree and sentenced to be executed on the 11th of July. He has made a full confession of his guilt. If his execution should take place on the day appointed, and of this there is scarcely a doubt, we will have one instance on record where a murderer was tried, convicted and hanged within six weeks after the commission of the offence.

New York might here learn a lesson from Virginia, and in the case of Frank Walworth teach youthful parricides in that State, that such unnatural crimes are too heinous to admit of the law's delay, but require prompt and summary justice.

THANKS.
We are under obligations to our friend Capt. James Barron Hope, Editor of the Norfolk Virginian, for a copy of Cotton's Life of Nathaniel Macon.

Capt. Hope cherishes a high regard for the services and character of the distinguished North Carolinian whose virtues are commemorated in the little volume before us.

We are pleased to see the interest evinced by Capt. Hope in behalf of North Carolina. We learn that he has in his possession some valuable data relating to the colonial history of this State, which he will probably have published in some form at an early day. It was his purpose to make that history his theme in his recent address before the two literary societies at Trinity College, but he was compelled by press of important business and the short time allowed for preparation, to select a subject requiring less elaboration and research.

DEATH IN THE PULPIT.
The particulars of the sad death of the Rev. Mr. Hughes, of Orange county, will be found in our local columns today.

As this excellent man of God ascended the pulpit last Sunday and gave out his text, without a moment's warning, he sank speechless to the floor without a groan or murmur. His congregation in alarm gathered around him. Tears sprang into their eyes as they gazed upon the sad scene. He was a corpse! The soul of the pious man had gone to its Maker. He died in harness—at the post of duty—in the service of his Master!

A cask shown at the Vienna Exhibition is capable of holding no less than 25,000 gallons of beer. It is said to be a perfect marvel of workmanship.

The Maryland editorial excursionists were handsomely entertained in Richmond on Friday.

BROWNLOW REDIVIVUS.

Now that Brownlow, the Tennessee renegade and hypocrite, has again come to the surface, in his scurrilous letter to Gen. Hill, the "Uncompromising Union Editor of the Southern Home," the Charlotte Observer revives George D. Prentice's famous article showing up the Parson in the most hideous colors. At the time the article was written Brownlow was Governor of Tennessee. Those who are intimately acquainted with Brownlow's career think the following bill of indictment by Prentice is not overdrawn:

"It is most extraordinary and most disgraceful that any portion of the people of Tennessee, knowing this man as they did, voted to make him Governor of that State. Their only excuse must be, that they were under military law, and so not really free agents in his election. No other State was afflicted and disgraced and cursed with such an unmitigated and unmitigable, such an unredeemed and unredeemable blackguard as her Chief Magistrate. He is a parody, a caricature, a broad burlesque on all possible Governors. He is a monstrosity.

"He is a thing as much out of nature as Barabara's woolly horse, or his giants and dwarfs, or his calf with two heads and eight legs—four of the legs pointing towards the zenith. His blood is hell-broth, which Satan will one day sup with a long spoon. They say there is fire in him, but it is hell-fire, every particle of it. Though he is but a slight glimmer, there are as many devils in him as there were in the whole herd that ran violently down a steep place into the sea. His heart is nothing but a mass of knots of vipers, rattlesnakes, cobrins, and cotton-mouths. He never argued a question in his life, approaching no subject, but with fierce, bitter, coarse, low, and vulgar obnoxiousness. His tongue should be bored through and through with his own steel-pen, heated red-hot.

"This man, as we have said, calls himself a clergyman. He holds forth in pulpits. He preaches, prays and exhorts, draws down his face, drops the corners of his mouth, and undertakes the look sanctimonious. And yet he seems always trying in his pulpit discourses to see how thin a disguise he can venture to curse and swear and blasphemy. He can't offer up a prayer in the house of God without telling the Lord what an infernal scoundrel, damned thief, or cursed vagabond, this, that, or the other neighbor is. From his pulpit, he has no personal controversy without attacking the wives, fathers, mothers, grandfathers, grandmothers, brothers, sisters, children, uncles, aunts and nephews of his opponents. He has sought to strew his whole path of life with the dark wrecks of wantonly ruined reputations. He has never had an hour's happiness except in the unhappiness of others. He has ever said to evil, 'Be thou my good!' He has always carefully jotted down all that he has ever heard unfavorable to gentlemen, while professing to be their friend, so as to be ready for a day of dreams, venom, and distils venom from his nose. Not the fuliginous exhalations from the bottomless pit, not the dreary and brimstone fumes from the sooty throat of the Devil, were ever more blighting and blasting than his accursed serpent breath. He never had a friend on earth outside of his own family. No doubt there are those who fear him for his fiendish ferocity, but no human being not of his household ever loved or respected him. He will yet have his reward. Sowing in wrath, he will reap in agony. Fury and hate may stifle in his heart the feeling of remorse for a time; but Nemesis, with her horrible wing, will yet scourge him around the whole orb of being. All the hairs upon his head will seem to be snakes, like the hissing and forked-tongued locks of the Eumenides. When he shall retire, as he soon must, from the noisy and tumultuous strifes that have ever engaged and still engage all his thoughts, he will not have a solitary pleasant and serene memory of the past. On the contrary, a store of bitter and desolating and torturing recollections will corrode and eat up his very heart, until, cut off from all human sympathy, exiled from the paths of all the beautiful genialities of life, having no friends or companions around him to soothe him in his moral and physical solitude, deserted by mankind, whose enemy he has been, and loathed by God, whose holy temple he has sacrilegiously polluted, festering from head to foot with the polluted and poisonous puddle-water in his veins, standing as an outcast and Pariah on the lone desert of despair, shrinking from the past, agonized by the present, and not daring to gaze into the future, beholding in fancy upon the door of his soul the words, 'Hope comes not here that comes to shut out by murky clouds from every star that to others lights the path to the tomb, and writing under myriad curses and execrations piled like a mountain of living coals upon his head, he shall long at last to make his escape from earth—scarcely asking to what more dreadful destiny.'

AN ENGLISH MILLIONAIRE.—When people talk about millionaires they usually mention Rothschild first, but there is a man in England by the name of Ward, in comparison with whom Rothschild is a pauper. This man Ward inherits a vast property, accumulated investments and estates, which give him an enormous income; he has the most magnificent house in London, the finest collection of art, and the finest country seats in the Kingdom; his wife is celebrated for her beauty, and her display by the Empress of Austria, the Empress, Queens and Princesses, look power. What have never seen any statement of it; a Manchester paper gives an account of his annual profits derived from his coal mines, which amount to the enormous sum of £4,900,000. So the income from one source alone of this inordinately wealthy person is not much short of twenty-five millions of dollars a year.

COW AND CALF STRAYED OR STOLEN.

Six weeks ago, a pale-red and half white COW, without horns, left my yard with a half grown yearling about the same color and without horns. The cow is marked with a red collar. If not killed, she has added to her family a young calf this time. The cow was raised on Little River, in Orange county, by Mr. Evans Turner, and may have strayed in that direction, though it is four years since I bought her. A liberal reward will be paid for her recovery.

Per Joseph Koske, Deputy Sheriff.

Piltusboro, June 9, 1873.

A PROCLAMATION.

BY THE Governor of North Carolina.

Be it known to all whom it may concern: That in conformity with section 8, chapter 133 of the acts of the General Assembly, passed at the session of 1872-73, in relation to amendments to the Constitution of the State:

I, T. J. REAMY, Governor of the State of North Carolina, do hereby order so many of the preamble of said act as sets forth the alterations proposed and agreed to, and the second section of said act to be published for thirty days preceding the first Thursday of August, 1873, in the Raleigh "Daily Sentinel," the "Daily Era" and the "Daily News," published in Raleigh, and also for the same period of time in the following newspapers, published in the various Congressional Districts of the State to-wit: First District—"The Standard," "The Daily News," "The Raleigh News," and "The Raleigh News;" Second District—"The News;" Goldsboro; "The Star;" Third District—"The Statesman;" Fayetteville; "The Star;" Fourth District—"The Statesman;" Charlotte; "The Statesman;" Fifth District—"The Statesman;" Salisbury; "The Statesman;" Sixth District—"The Statesman;" Charlotte; "The Statesman;" Seventh District—"The Statesman;" Salisbury; "The Statesman;" Eighth District—"The Statesman;" Asheville.

That portion of the preamble ordered to be published is in the following words, to-wit:

"Whereas, the last General Assembly, (three-fifths of the whole number of members of each House concurring) the bill containing the same, and having been read three times in each House, the Constitution of the State to-wit: Article I, Section 1, and the following alterations of the Constitution of the State to-wit: Alteration in relation to the public debt; alteration in relation to the office of Superintendent of Public Works; alteration in relation to the census; alteration in relation to exemption from taxation; alteration in relation to the University; alteration in relation to the sessions of the General Assembly; alteration in relation to the Code Commission; alteration in relation to Federal and other officers holding office."

That the said bill, as amended, and the alterations of the Constitution, shall be published in the following words, to-wit:

"It shall be the duty of the Sheriff in each and every county in the State to open polls at the several election precincts in his county on the said first Thursday in August next, and the same shall be kept open until the hour of eight o'clock in the morning of the said day, and at the afternoon, when all persons qualified to vote according to the Constitution, may vote for or against the ratification of the said amendments, those desiring such amendment to vote with the written or printed ticket 'For Amendment,' and those of a contrary opinion to vote with a written or printed ticket, 'Against Amendment.'"

The attention of County Commissioners and Inspectors of the Election is also called to the fifth section of said act of Assembly, which provides that separate ballot-boxes shall be furnished for each amendment to be voted on.

Done at our City of Raleigh, this [] day of June, A. D. 1873, and in the ninety-seventh year of American Independence.

T. J. REAMY, Governor.

J. B. NEATHRY, Private Sec'y.

IMPORTANT SALE OF

PUBLIC PROPERTY.

At a meeting of the Board of Managers of the Cape Fear and Deep River Navigation Works, at the Executive Office in Raleigh, on the 3d of June, 1873, the following resolutions were passed:

1. Resolved, That in accordance with the Act of the General Assembly, 1868-69, chapter 12, it is deemed advisable to sell for the benefit of the State of North Carolina, in the Cape Fear and Deep River Navigation Works:

2. Resolved, That the same be sold in two sections, to-wit: first, from Fayetteville to Sharp's Field Dam, within 5 years from date of sale, and from Sharp's Field Dam, including the same, up the Cape Fear and Deep River to the limits of the original charter.

3. Resolved, That the respective purchasers shall pay one-third of the price of the purchases in cash, and the remainder in one and two years from day of sale, with interest from said date, and that the same be secured by satisfactory bond, and a lien on the interests purchased. Title not to be made till more county within 3 years from said date.

4. Resolved, That H. A. London, Secretary, and B. J. Howze, Attorney of the Board, be authorized to make said sale at Lockville, in Chatham county, on the 8th of July, 1873, and that they give notice of the same in the "Raleigh News" and "Raleigh News," the "Star" and "Post" in Wilmington, until day of sale and by posters.

We shall offer the above property for sale according to the above resolutions.
